Lundred others. Last Teesday the gauge on the sufficience fool system of Southern railroads was changed to four feet eight and a half inches, so as so in the tracks uniform throughout this initial States.

In the interest of general in tegendance and In the interest of general in begendance and as a rebuke to these who make languins for control of the judiciary, Scheen Smith will get a heavy vote. The general desire to subtrace every opportunity for independent voting, when such voting can be done for proper objects, may carry him in.

Distribution of tickels in this city and Plast Distribution of the selection to-morrow has been general. The voter may prepare his ticket at bia leisure before he starts for the polis. As the general voter is a thorons scrutcher this pear. front nocket tickets" will go very numerousis ballot boxes. And the vest proceet ticket

In the hope of preventing "scratching," the ring ticket, it is said, will be printed with no margins and no open spaces. The object is to make it impossible, after erasure of names, to write other names in. This is quite in accord with the usual course of ring tactics. The obsert always is to employ every possible means to prevent full and fair expression of the popular Insernach as a representative in congress is among the officials to be elected to-morrow, the laws of the United States, as well as of the state, will take cognizance of the election. Any violation of the federal statute will therefore be subject to punishment under that statule; so that the offender will be liable to find himself in the tolls of the law of the United States as well as of the state of Oregon.

A favorite ring method for the present campaign is that of arranging with the keepers of cheap boarding houses to keep men till after the election. Payment therefor makes the board-inch board. ing house keeper work for the ring ticket, and at the same time buys the voter. This is one of the roundabout methods of ring bribery, which are in every way as criminal as that of direct probage of roting cattle at the polls on election

George Steel is paraded as "a friend of their workingman." He always shows his friendship for the working man with mouth service, about election times. Steel is a soft-banded; office-holder and office-seeker, of the professional kind. During large part of the lyag period of his residence in Oregon he has held office, and when not holding office he has been seeking office; and this makes him turn up very frequently as a professional friend of the workfrequently as a professional friend of the work-

It will be necessary to look out for bribers and repeaters, and quite as nonessary to watch the count. Let not the attention of the judges he willdrawn for a moment from the boxes and the count. The judges must open the boxes before the voting begins; in the presence of the people assembled at the voting place, and turn the same upside down, so as to empty them of anything that may be in them, and then look them securely. At every polling place there ellouid be a copy of the election laws.

Gaule's appeal for the "liquor vote" shows to what depths of meanness and degralation a ring politician who wants office will descend, His conduct, ought to secure to Mrs. Gove the whole suffrages of the county. No decent may can have any excuse for voting for him. Besides being a grovelling fellow who would stone to anything to get votes, Gault is a stupid lumbead, whose candidacy against a woman who has special fitness and ability for the position of superintendent is tittle short of an insult

Into whose bands shall the important business of Multnomah county be delivered? Into Cat-lin's or Dement's? This is one of those queswhich should furnish their own answer The county business is large and constantly growing larger, and the administration of it demands known ability for the transaction of busibe kent out of the hands of the ring of small fre ne kept and of the families of the ring of small repoliticians, who know no way of making a living and have ne thought of business beyond that of getting into official places and living at the public expense. Roads, bridges and ferries, the administration of probate business, examination and commitment of the beane, care of the poor the equalization and levying of taxes and all the details of county business require a man who has recognized qualifications for the office of county judge. It is certainly more important to the people to have good service in this important position than to dispose of the office as a method of providing a place for one of the young professionals of ring positics, agt to have him inken care of.

The whole force of the ring campaign is con-centrated upon the effort to elect Steel to the state senate. As far as possible everything else on the ticket will be sacrificed to this purpose. on the free wint be statisted to this proposed the chief reason is that Steel is a thorough ringster, an absolute property; he is wanted for jobs in the legislature, and particularly fulls jobs of electing a United a tates securior two years hence, in conformats with the agreement well upderstood to have been made last winter. In the legislature he will also be a supporter of the breakury ring. For these reasons great ex-actions will be made to elect him, including a wapping, true ing, corrupt combinations of every lesexiption and criminal psychase of votes. He is atome a boss of the flur and a property of it, and he owes his nominal in the fact that an other person could be found who could be trusted tally in all fluings had a the work of the ring in the legislitude double from years. He was returned for the tree-because the ring wants then who went theet over in when a tethe dependance on the phase to this court may is an insult out a stocked and to every man and at the ring, and it is the more adious from the known ber that britary is to be builed upon as the chief arstromentan the effect to secure his

THE WAR DEMOCRACY.

The war desine racy of 1841, '65 are deserving of eternal honor at the hands of the nation. They stood by the flag in spite of party prejudice and affiliations, at a time when leading democrate, like Fornando Wood, were sending arms to the Confederacy, and writing Davis that New York city would secode from the Union if Lincoln attempted coercion; when men like ex-President Pierce wrote Datis that he expected to live to see the North beaten and "grass growing in the streets of our principal cities." Besides Wood and Pierce, there were Vallandigham, Pendleton, Pierce, there were Vallandigham, Pendleton, Voothees, Hendricks, Thurman, Long, "Brick" Pomercy, C. Cher, E. J. Phelps, (the present minister to England), Judge Woodward of Penrsylvania, Jerry Biack, Bayard, Horatio Seymour, Thomas H. Seymour, Origen S. Seymour, Jo. * - CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

An article on. "Capital Punishment" in our issue of May 20 has drawn on the following let-ter from Hon. Henry C. Hobbasch, of Connecticut, who puts the argument against the death penalty strongly as follows:

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28, 1885. TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN Dear Mir:—The question of capital punishment is large and its discussion has been endless, but as on have, with much ability, sepont the reasons for ts continuance, let me tell you why 1 disbolieve in its formulation, the meets sary to lake the life of any oriminal or outlaw in order to make isocioty safe, then it is our duty i take t, but it is not no easiery we have no right to take away life. There is no sense in the ven cancel notion of punishment, which is no intellectual inhoritation from interior civilizations. Punishment is to protect society by evaluations. Tunishmen is to protein some by putting away temps rarily; or for good, the offender, by holding up, his confinement for exitople, and for his reformation. The last them! is almost purely his reformation. The last idea! Is almost purely modern and is true. Now for society to comess that it cannot be safe as ling as a marderer is in existence is a horrid commentary upon its capacities. Notither is it true as it seems to me. Theretare, we have no right to take life by way of unitably marked two bindred, years ago death was thought, as your article argues now in limited compass of crime, to be a necessary punishment for 200 crimes. Decemby and humanity (and law), or are sometimes human base sites in the inferces so are sometimes human' have sitted the offences so punishable to a single crin e. convict of murder as long as the death penalty is affixed to it.

Third—Capital proishment in theory is in fact herefright a villain. The condemned gets flowers from weak-minder women, has "no cross to crown" written over his ceil by stupid philantirepy, his every movement in prison and every convulsive act upon the guilows are painted in sensitional rightaria. convaisive not upon the gallors are painted in sensational rheteric and werse ithistrations in the anxypapers, and on the whole the social circle of our pupilation which breeds murderers admires his "gane" departure and learns to easy his notoriety. Yours truly, HENRY C. ROBINSON.

To the first proposition of Mr. Robinson we

To the list proposition of mil. Hollison we agree that human life ought age to be taken by the law except it be necessary for the safety of society. Whether the penalty, as related to the offence eeems severe or leukent; it is not graduated thater the law according to any though; of comparison or viadictiveness; the purpose of the law is prevention, and if the penalty seems different is not because the law is animated by pitiles it is not because the law is animated by a spirit of rengeance; if this statement is not because the trib to because the law is primarily concerned with the com-rest of the criminal. Theoretically the law is practiced; it has rothing to do with centiment; it can neither hate nor pityltheory innal; it can not seek to reproduce in its punish non the tortures the assassin may have indicated on his victim any more than it can take into account the sufferings of the preparation of the criminal when he the or repensance of the crimin when by the mouth of the court it fixes he punishment. The side question for courts of law and execu-tives to pass upon is whether the degree of pun-ishment, or the centing upon of its infliction will best serve to provent the repurrence of the crimes. The saintary power of punishment is in proportion to its swiftness, dectainty and utter hopeleseness of any rescue from its pains by the Justice, for the highest health of society should ome down with the appaliate swiftness that Homer suggests when he describes the descent of apollo. He came down like night. There is no marderer so vite that the ministers will not sign a petition for his pardors. They by the annualize of the apparatus are supported as sign a period for the practice; they my significant appeals of suffering wives and kif dred of the condemned, with display of pict, res of picty and remorse on part of the prisophi, and the pommunity is constantly outsiged by the release of the practicity list of a residents, then the picks with the contraction. refinement, who, in the judgment of that lovely rose of centimental justice, the prison chaplain, is so full of repentance as to say gest the thought of absolute moral republity, als! In the op nion of his friends "has circuity say leved enough, or if he asn't his wi end child say have." Every if he takn't his wile and childran have. There man is disposed to respond the home way, by this appeal to his syntacting, but this evit is that the hundre impulse towards the criminal often exercimes the conservative include: which regards the common good, say Matthew Hate said "When I think of the surjows of the culprit I think also it the surjows of his callerit thank also it the surjows of society." But the surrows of society are tot consideral by sentificiatality who will sign, bything excepts about ince, and or wontons frow symmathic. sening entones who was some private groups a table indee, and givenjons grow symmathetic which, they ought to be stern, they plead the letters, pettress, e.c., as no excess for pandon. Thires pardons are generally granted on the dimer grounds that "promiting criticens of the county," or "substantial petters of the vicinity," or a "large myster of felicing citizens," ity," or a "large myther of leiching chize is," or a mumber of the preparation of the medigabors and acquaintained his educated for channess in the case. Too unique is well in no over the administration of the artificial to a Sunday school or a sewing so lety. Every man knows that nine men out of ten will sign a petition for anything that does not involve the payment of modely or the endorsement of a note. You can get signatures to, the partial or reprise or repriate of the very worst crimicals inch as assity retrial of the very worst criminals just as easily regrain of the very worst or includes has as assist as house as pot signal under to any application for a federal office, or to any paper that does not bild you to pay our included. We knew a case where a murderer, who escaped the gallows through the ability of hits agyor, was given eleven years in the pentioniary. Within two years the clergy men of his led noty were moving for the pardon of this despert; o, who had been a turn terror for years! This propensity to purdon a murderer, who has ny good betavior pardon a murderer, who has by good betavior outworn his in famy, is what ichiefly makes the people cling to capita. Junist ment. They feel like Emerson, who cope said: "When a man has reformed himself be is ture of one thing, viz.: there is one less scound?' In the world." And so, when a murderer shang, the people are sure there is one less strutthroat in the world; there is one some in his only prison that cannot be broken by a pardon, viz.: the dark house and the long sleep of the grave. There is no more loss to the world in the destruction of a homicide than there is in the killing of a rattlesmake or a mod dog. So wish that even homicidal lunatics could be signify destroyed, even when morally irresponsible. The only odious thing about 'dibleau's execution was the feeling that a dangering with beast had been feeling that a dangerous wift beast had been destroyed, under a versict which declared the nestroyed, under a versity which declared he nordered regally sane and already responsible for his crime, when, as a ratter of fact, the pdor wretch had been craft for para. The cause he was destroyed, but he cause he was destroyed, and it is a little action and to a latter that the parameter and the state of the parameter and the paramete

Jackern performed no military action that en-Jacker's performed no military action that de-titles I in to the praire is issed upon him by Jeff Divis. It was no great military feat for Jacksto, a graduate of West Point, who had seen service in discipe, to seat the military in-capacity and ignorance of Banks, and the military n ediocrite of Tremont and Shields in the valley campaign of 1862. In the Peninsula campaign of 1862 Longstreet says that Jackson's unaccountable blunderings saved McClelian. In the pursuit after Gaines's Mill, fought June 27, 14 2, Jackson was ordered to Charles City Cross Reads; be took the wrong read and reacted White Oak creek June 36, only to find the bridge destroyed and his further progress harrier by Frankilu's corps. Longetreet and Hill longht a terrible bathe all day long with Summ-rand deinteleman for the possession of the cross roots. Had they succeeded McCla-ian's army would have been cut in two, as these roads commanded the on y line of retreat to James river. Jackson's blunder separated his powartin corps from Hill and Longstreet. Anok-son could not take the back track and repair his blinder in time; he could not pash lorward in fact of Franklin, and his non were as comin face of Franklin, and his man where as completely paralyzed to help Langstreet and Hill, or to hard Franklin as if they had been thed hand and frot. The federals made a desperate resistance and inglification for the cross reads and then, our trains having all passed and Keyes and Porter's corps having occupied and fortified Malvern Hill, our forces under Sunner, Heintzleman and Franklin withdrew by a night march and by morning were in position in line with Porter and Keyes. Lee's plan was admira-Potriar and Kavas, Lea's plan was admirable: if could not, have failed of success but for Jacason's blunder. As it was, Sumper and Heintzleman barely held their own, but with Jackson's corps in its piace, with Longstreet and Hill, the cross roads would have then lost; and Lee's army would have been thrus! like a wedge setween Ponler and Keyes at 2 lvern, and Summer, Helptz'emma and Franklin at Glenca e and White oak creek. It was a salen iid annorinai(v. and was lost by Jackson) failure lookey orders. Jackson arrived July 1, the day after the fair, and Lee, attacking Mairern Hill, was repulsed as disastrously as Burnside was at Fredericksburg. Jackson's subsequent military exploits were such as any hardy soldier of great energy, courage and accurate kin whedge of the country can perform under the direction and explicit orders of an able strategist like Lee.

Jackson was fanatically levoted to the Southoatson was minuteau to the to me souter ern trace; he marched with all the resties rapidite, and fought with all the dogged courage of a Cromwellian. His original corps we occuposed very largely of Virginians, so that he did not have to go outside his own command to find fellows who kn w every wood-raid and brille-path. He had, therefore, the caled re-nicite for a successful executive of flank movements in war, troops that could march fast, fight well and knew the country well that was the scene of operations.

. ackson's movements in the second Bull Run campaign exposed him to great peril: they would have been futal to his whole force had be been opposed by a soldier even of the capacity of Heade, for they were audacious rather than able. Nothing save I him but the mise: the McClettanian that sacrificed Pope's army to personal jealousy of that commander. Jack son's novement on Harper's Ferry would have been fatal to Lee's army had McClellan acted with a particle of senergy. The order for Lee's march fell into McClettan's hands. McClettan acted and the property of the series of playing the content of the series of the acted upon the information, but acted so slowly and tamely that he lost his chance. Franklin forced Crampton s Gap on the 14th, and the same day McCiellan forced Turner's Gap. A forward march the next day would have in-A forward march the next may would nave its respected McClellan's whole army between Jackson at Harper's Ferr, and Lee at Antietam. F ask in did nothing all day, the 15th, McClel-lau dit. nothing, and so Harper's Ferry, with 11,818 men, was lost; the Confederates withdrew mun pleated and iclined Lee the morning of the unua stested and joined Lee the morning of the 17th, and Jackson was saved from what Palfrey acys ough: to have been his military errave and that of Lee. Jackson was killed in May, 1835 at the than of highene, at Chancellorsville. His sobriery, plety, simplicity of dress and speech, his Linaticism, all helped to make b in a poliurar here: but there does not seem to be any evidence that he was of higher military qualit, hern Paut, such have inverted to Linatersad. than Early, and he was interior to Longetreet mucity is constantly outgaged by the release of the worst kind of criminals, upon the piecistic plea that the prisoner is a man of education and beginning who, in the folderist of that havely but he was never pitted against an abiendier, such as Longetreet met at Gettysbur. and the Wilderness in Hancock, and as Early met in the valley in Sheridan. He would have found whipping such men very different wer-than chas ng Banks and cufting the long cars of Gru. Incapacity and Gen. Heblitty, in scape : From mt and Shields.
